

Process & Skill Course Catalog

The average Fortune 300 Company spends approximately $1800 per person for training annually. This tremendous investment typically has little lasting impact and traditionally less than 5-30% retention levels.

Our training is the most flexible and learning-friendly environment in the industry based on the proven and effective spaced-repetition learning model. A Process & Skill Education yields an 80% plus retention level and sits at the highest marks of any learning environment.

Training should not solely be about delivering material to students. Rather, training should be more about learning proven skills and mastering the ability to put those new skills into action.

We offer over 185 courses that are designed to help your employees learn and grow in their skills and abilities. Our Process & Skill Education supports multiple learning modalities and also offers training in English, French and Spanish.

- Anytime Learning courses range from 3-15 minutes in length available to you anytime you need a quick refresher on industry best practices related to customer communication, owner retention and so much more
- Proficiency Testing & Certification is a key piece of ensuring your employees are taking learning seriously and are capable of demonstrating their new knowledge of the material learned

CDK Global University is committed to a simple mission: grow your people to grow your business.

BD4MGR101 BD Overview / KPI / Appointment Ratio: An in-depth look at how Business Development Processes™ impact your business and how to execute a predictable appointment driven business model. We will take a look at the data that drives growth daily and how the Appointment Ratio is the true measuring stick of a successful business development initiative in your store for your Sales and Service Departments.

BD4MGR102 Appointment Cycle™ for Sales & Service: The Appointment Cycle™ business model is a proven and easy to implement tactical and strategic approach to managing your daily appointment setting practices. When implemented correctly the Appointment Cycle™ gives you an easy to follow and easily executable plan for each day.

BD4MGR103 Bridging Sales & Service: The critical connection points that bring these two departments together, working for a common purpose, benefiting both, and most importantly, working together to create a more consistent and impactful client experience.

BD4MGR104 Process Mapping Sales: Blueprints a clear and concise method that allows you to illustrate your vision for how your sales interactions will be accomplished. Remember, the client views the organization as a whole and from what you learn in BD4MGR103 you will now be capable of having continuity and consistency in how your clients are engaged and converted.

BD4MGR105 Process Mapping Service: The architecture and thought you put into this process mapping provides the critical safety nets, tactics and approach you will take with each area of opportunity in service. Sales drives service and Service drives sales. Never forget that these two departments are connected through the one thing that truly matters; your customers. Their experience in each will, in most cases, determine your capacity to drive advocacy and loyalty.

BD4MGR106 No Show and PR Calls: These processes are critical safety nets for your business. Know the right way to approach these calls. The “Who”, “When”, and “How” must be done correctly if you are to optimize your total business. Both your Service and Sales Departments require solid strategies on how you will address and attack your No Show and PR opportunities.

Business Development for Managers

BD4MGR107 Getting to a 1:1, 2:1, 3:1 and Beyond: Predictability, consistency and a growth trajectory for most organizations is beyond their grasp. The key elements to driving appointment performance seem simple, but often can be daunting to embrace due to the sheer number moving pieces and parts of a BD process. Most organizations can't reach the first set of milestones for Sales and Service Appointment Ratios, and most will never get beyond them. Why? They don't know how! Learn exactly how to achieve and exceed the ratios that drive growth for your business quickly.

BD4MGR108 Business Development Models: A successful Business Development Model is the derivative of understanding your unique market, competition, and environmental factors right now. Business Development's permanent success means that it develops into a culture. This is why copycat approaches simply don't work. To create a culture, a culture that truly embraces and owns their model, demands the right solution and at the right time for your organization. Explore over a dozen different, proven and successful models.
